Miller Easy Lift™ Harness & Extraction Bridle

Miller Diving is proud to introduce the Miller Easy Lift Harness & Extraction Bridle. The Patent Pending Easy Lift Harness & Bridle are similar to the Miller North Sea Harness with the addition of leg straps and seat webbing to assist in the lifting/extraction of a diver.

The leg strap D-rings, marked in yellow, and the D-ring located behind the head, marked in red, are used with the Extraction Bridle to lift the diver out of the water into a seated position. Leg straps also incorporate the adjustable interlocking buckle for easy adjustments and removal.

The Extraction Bridle (sold separately) is color coordinated with the Easy Lift Harness (“Red to the head” and “yellow for the legs”) to make hook up simple and fast. The Extraction Bridle features a built in helmet/mask net that is designed to help align and support the weight of the helmet and head to assist in the prevention of neck injuries.

Neoprene “Adjustment Sleeves” hold the loose ends of the adjustment straps (on the shoulder and leg straps) to keep straps secure and in place. Additional D-Rings on the shoulder straps and waist strap are used for umbilical and accessory attachment points.

The Miller Easy Lift Harness and Extraction Bridle meet all ANSI Z359.1 standard requirements.
